MOUNTAIN BIKE COUNTRY

Trentino is the home of bike tours.

Here, cycling enthusiasts are spoilt for choice with superb tours and trails: road routes for novices, cycle paths that are perfect for families, plus great trails for mountain bikes (over 4.700 km).

Those who get their adrenaline rush from grinding uphill can tackle the spectacular ascents made by the riders of the Giro d'Italia, passing from 67 metres a.s.l. on the shore of Lake Garda to an altitude of 2.000 metres in the surrounding mountains. In addition, there are over 300 kilometres of family-friendly cycle paths where you can pedal along in tranquillity, as well as countless trails suitable for mountain biking and 21 tours that enjoy cult status. Trentino's 10 cycle paths provide a veritable paradise for cycle tourism fans (www.ripristino.provincia.tn.it).

UNESCO Natural World Heritage Site

On June 26th 2009 the Brenta Dolomites together with eight other components of The Dolomites have been inscribed in the World Heritage List because of their exceptional beauty and unique landscape.

THE ADAMELLO BRENTA NATURAL PARK

The Adamello Brenta Natural Park comprises, to the west, the Trentino section of the Adamello-Presanella massif and the so-called kingdom of water and ice: huge glaciers, raging torrents, spectacular waterfalls and dozens of enchanting lakes. To the east, meanwhile, the park includes the breathtaking Brenta Dolomites: a fairy-tale like landscape of pinnacles, towers and sheer cliff faces. Between these two geologically diverse worlds lie numerous beautiful valleys, each with its own characteristic scenery.

The Adamello Brenta Natural Park protects the natural and environmental characteristics of the area, promotes scientific study and the use of the natural resources by the community. It safeguards and enhances the natural, cultural and human resources of the territory. Visiting the Adamello Brenta Natural Park means embarking on a journey in search of nature's incredible biodiversity, appreciating its colours and the way man has shaped the environment through traditional activities linked to mountain living. It's an invitation to let yourself go for a few hours, a day or a weekend, in search of a forgotten bond with the landscape, a bond forged by images, sounds and sensory perceptions.

THE PARK AND THE BEARS

A truly majestic and breathtaking animal, the Alpine brown bear (Ursus arctos L.) has always fascinated mankind, so much so that its history has continually been intertwined with our own. The victims of persecution for centuries, brown bears were confined to a limited area of Western Trentino which, in order to protect the animals, became the Adamello Brenta Natural Park.

In order to prevent the imminent extinction of the species, in 1996 the Park launched the brown bear reintroduction project, called Life Ursus. Between 1999 and 2002, 10 brown bears were released into the wild here, adapting so well to their new environment that the population today numbers more than 20.

Dedicated to the most expert and intrepid mountain bikers, this is a gruelling off-road trail that guarantees unforgettable scenery and thrills galore. 171 km long in total, more than half of which is on dirt tracks, with a total elevation gain of 7.700 metres. Just the ticket for those who love to feel the burn of steep uphill and reach the summit with gritty determination. The itinerary takes you past the 2.000 metre threshold towards the famous peaks of the Dolomites, taking in legendary stages of the Transalp Mountain Bike Tour: Cima Grostè, Monte Spinale, Crozzon di Brenta, Campanil Basso and Monte Peller. In addition to its stunning scenery and nature, this loop route offers screaming downhill and climbs guaranteed to put sweat on your brow; a wide variety of terrain, 115 kilometres of rough track, 6 kilometres of path but only 1 kilometre where you'll have to actually lug the bike.

"COUNTRY" TRAIL THE JOY OF PEDALLING IN COMPANY

Pedal in blissful tranquillity along safe cycle paths, country tracks and hillside trails, following this simple, well-balanced route which is ideal for families and all those who get on their bikes to unwind and discover the world around them. The trail is the right choice for those who wish to enjoy the mountains and explore the amazing horizons, but who also want to indulge their passion for cycling at a more laid-back pace. Cycling along the valley floor, Trentino's agricultural tradition becomes apparent as you pass farms, apple orchards and vineyards, cross pasture land and cycle through thick woodlands before coming to picturesque ancient hamlets nestling quietly in the green countryside. Suitable for all levels, the Country Trail runs virtually parallel to its big brother, the Expert Trail, but avoids climbs with more demanding gradients and is designed to allow less expert cyclists to nonetheless enjoy the beauty of the Brenta Dolomites. And for the more challenging sections of the trail, a transfer service in the form of buses and trains equipped to carry bikes will shuttle you conveniently to your destination.

The Country Trail includes some of Trentino's most beautiful cycle paths and takes in enchanting scenery; majestic mountains reflected in crystal clear lakes, the unspoilt territory of the Adamello Brenta Natural Park, far from the suffocating heat and mugginess of the plain, in the rejuvenating peace and tranquillity of the mountains.

EXTREME RIDER? OTHER RECOMMENDED TRAILS

For the most demanding riders, but above all for those who want to explore the area in search of all its treasures, views and stunning scenery, for those who want to drink in and savour every last drop of the Dolomites, there are also other routes: routes that diverge from the main itinerary to delve deep into the natural landscape and discover its most characteristic traits: skirting the glaciers, racing alongside raging torrents, across lush pastures, plateaus, apple orchards, past castles and fine palaces, mountain farms and the skyline of the Dolomites.

VAL RENDENA: LA VAL DI BORZAGO AND SAN VALENTINO

Skirting the glaciers!

The Val Rendena route explores two beautiful valleys, parts of the Adamello Group, torrents, streams and waterfalls that roar down over granite rocks. The climb is a tough one: from the valley floor, you head rapidly up, entering two valleys amid rough tracks, farmsteads and verdant pastures, your gaze drawn to the snowy peak of Carè Alto.

VALLI GIUDICARIE CENTRALI VAL DI BREGUZZO

A tour of the alpine summer pastures!

The route kicks off at Tione, following a fantastic stretch of rough, tree-shaded track from Zuclo-Bondo, passing by the famous sanctuary of Madonna del Lares, then climbing up through the wild Val di Breguzzo, rich in flora and fauna. It's a long, enjoyable ascent to the four alpine summer pastures along the route, which are still used for grazing and are ideal spots for taking a break and tasting some traditional mountain cheese. The route then descends, alternating woodland and open country stretches, touching Val Rendena before finally reaching Tione.

ALTOPIANO DELLA PAGANELLA: MONTE GAZZA

The terrace overlooking the Dolomites!

You diverge from the Dolomiti di Brenta Bike main route at Lake Nembia: views over the Limarò gorge and of the lakes of Toblino, Cavedine and Garda reward your efforts after the tough uphill to Margon (according to a local sign, "where silence is a precious resource") and up again to the alpine pastures at Gazza. From here you cross grazing land and pastures to Monte Gazza and Paganella: a tableland you can cycle across with spectacular views of the Dolomites!

VAL DI NON: LAKE TOVEL

Following the trail of the bear!

The famous red lake, in the heart of the Brenta Dolomites, is your destination on this route. Leaving from Tuenno, you follow the downhill road through the mountains, heading into Val di Tovel. After the entrance to the Adamello Brenta Park, the route turns uphill, with woodland sections and the striking lunar landscape of the "Glare", up to the shores of the little alpine lake with its natural basin and crystal waters reflecting the Dolomite peaks. This impressive natural environment is also the habitat of the solitary brown bear.

VAL DI SOLE I MASI DA MONT

Farms and mountains!

The route starts from the valley floor, following the left bank of the river Noce before climbing up the slope, looking down over the valley with superb views of the Dolomites (the Peller massif) and Val Meledrio (an enchanting valley crossed by the Dolomiti di Brenta Bike trail). The farms of Mont testify to man's age-old presence on these precipitous yet thrilling slopes, stirring a certain nostalgia for bygone ages, just reward for a gruelling and as yet little-known uphill.
